

Motor Vehicle Regulation

- Vehicles should not cause inconvenience or endanger others. Overtaking is allowed where permitted, but drivers must return to their lane afterward.
- Crossing solid lines is generally prohibited, except for obstructions.
- Drivers must stay in marked turning lanes and yield appropriately.
- Speed limits must be observed, especially near sensitive areas.
- Left lane driving is the default unless directed otherwise.
- Drivers must maintain distance, display proper plates, and avoid distractions.
- Safety gear like helmets and seat belts are mandatory.
- Stop and give way at appropriate signs, especially for emergency vehicles.
- Hazardous materials should not be carried, and railway crossing rules must be followed.
- Roundabout and intersection rules prioritize certain vehicles.
- Horn use should be limited to necessary situations.
- Towing has specific speed and distance limits.
- Safe following distances must be maintained, especially in adverse weather.
- Overtaking should be done safely and not in prohibited areas.
- Yield to processions and use proper hand signals for communication.
- Carry necessary documents while driving.
- Advertising on vehicles without permits is prohibited.
- Specific rules apply to parking and stopping.
- Compliance is required during vehicle inspections.
- Pedestrian crossings and footpaths have specific rules.
- Proper actions should be taken at accident scenes.
- Traffic light rules dictate different actions based on signals.
- Manual signals from police officers must be obeyed.
- Improper use of lights is prohibited.

- Vehicle loads must not exceed specified limits.
- Specific rules apply for driving inside tunnels.
- Mobile phone use while driving is strictly prohibited.
- Hazard lights should be used in case of a vehicle breakdown.
- Proper procedures must be followed when merging onto roads.
- Drivers must yield to pedestrians at uncontrolled crossings.
- Vehicles should not drive on footpaths or cycle tracks unless directed by police.
- Proper actions should be taken at accident scenes, including taking pictures if possible.
- Correct actions are outlined for various traffic light signals, including green arrows.
- Drivers must obey manual signals from police officers.
- Improper use of parking lights or high beams is prohibited.
- Vehicle loads must not exceed specified limits.
- Specific rules apply for driving inside tunnels, including headlamp usage and prohibited maneuvers.